

“The first thing you must learn about canoeing is that the canoe is not a lifeless, inanimate object—it feels very much alive, alive with the life of the river. Life is transmitted to the canoe by currents of air and the water upon which it rides.”

—Path of the Paddle, by Bill Mason

Copyright © 1984, 1995 by Key Porter Books.